2025 YEAR IN REVIEW

MONTHLY INCOME DISTRIBUTIONS DELIVERED CONSISTENTLY

Through 2025, GCI continued to meet its core objective of providing sustainable monthly income, outperforming its Target Return of the RBA Cash Rate +3.50% p.a. on a through the cycle basis. Distributions were delivered consistently, even during periods of volatility and shifting market conditions, highlighting the portfolio’s defensive qualities and the strength of the investment process.

This consistency reflects GCI’s focus on capital preservation and risk-adjusted returns rather than dependence on favourable markets or timing. Since inception, GCI has shown it can generate income through a wide range of economic environments, and 2025 further reinforced that track record.

WHY THIS MATTERS

Consistent delivery against objectives gives unitholders confidence that income is being generated through a disciplined, repeatable investment process - not by relying on market conditions or timing.

DISCIPLINED GROWTH DELIVERED GREATER SCALE, LIQUIDITY AND FLEXIBILITY

2025 marked another step forward for GCI, with market capitalisation surpassing A$1.2 billion through a series of well supported capital management initiatives. Capital was raised only when there was clear visibility of opportunities that aligned with GCI’s return and risk objectives, with deployment paced accordingly.

GCI AUM GROWTH (A$)*

As GCI continued to scale, the benefits of a larger vehicle became increasingly evident. Improved on market (ASX) liquidity, broader investor participation and enhanced diversification all supported more efficient portfolio management. The closed ended listed structure also remained a key strength, allowing GCI to stay fully invested during periods of volatility without pressure to sell assets into dislocated markets.

For investors, this translated into improved secondary market liquidity on the ASX and greater flexibility around how and when units are traded.

WHY THIS MATTERS

Disciplined growth and stronger liquidity give investors more flexibility while helping preserve portfolio quality and the integrity of the investment process.

ASSET ALLOCATION AND GCI'S 3RD OBJECTIVE – HIGH RISK-ADJUSTED RETURNS

Gryphon is an active manager, and the GCI portfolio is intentionally not managed as a buy and hold strategy. Asset allocation is guided by the Gryphon Investment Committee guardrails, relative value and deal specific stress testing.

While the Australian consumer remained resilient and technicals were supportive, offshore and generalist investors continued to buy Australian securitised products with limited regard for value. In this environment, the Gryphon Investment Committee maintained a patient and selective approach to deployment.

Our flexibility to move across primary term deals, private securitisation warehouses, and seasoned secondary opportunities continue to be a meaningful advantage.

WHY THIS MATTERS

The GCI strategy centers on three objectives, starting with capital preservation. When income is the priority, protecting capital comes first. The broad opportunity set within the GCI universe allows the Gryphon Investment Committee to stay patient with asset allocation and risk-taking, while keeping the other goals in mind: delivering strong risk-adjusted returns and sustainable monthly income.

STABLE BORROWER FUNDAMENTALS UNDERPINS RESILIENCE

Across 2025, borrower performance remained a central focus of portfolio surveillance. Residential mortgage arrears stayed low by historical standards¹, though trends varied by borrower type and vintage. Non conforming arrears remained higher than prime but continued to reflect strong borrower equity and conservative origination practices.

Housing market conditions were broadly supportive, driven by limited supply, population growth and resilient employment. Late year regulatory developments further emphasised prudent lending standards², aligning well with GCI's established credit discipline.

Within the ABS portfolio, performance across auto and SME exposures remained contained. In auto ABS, the fixed rate nature of loans meant borrowers benefited less directly from rate cuts, reinforcing the importance of conservative structures and active monitoring.

WHY THIS MATTERS

Stable borrower performance underpins the durability of cash flows and validates GCI's emphasis on loan level credit analysis.

PRIVATE SECURITISATION WAREHOUSES

Gryphon is a leading participant in the Australian securitisation market, investing across the capital structure from AAA to below investment grade in both public term transactions, and private securitisation warehouses.

Gryphon's investment processes, governance frameworks, and disclosure standards are consistent for public transactions and private securitisation warehouses. As part of the Barings group, Gryphon manages funds for some of the world's largest institutional investors and has always maintained robust compliance and control frameworks.

Importantly, the alignment between our public and private securitisation warehouse activity is reflected in three key areas:

- Disclosures — GCI provides best practice disclosures on portfolio composition in its monthly updates to investors in addition to ongoing unitholder education which can be found on Gryphon's website (<https://gcapinvest.com/>);
- Valuations — All securities in the GCI portfolio are independently valued daily by ICE Data, a leading global fixed income price provider; and
- Conflicts of interest — Gryphon's management fees for its products are clearly disclosed to investors and neither GCI (nor any of its related entities) earn fees from undisclosed sources.

WHY THIS MATTERS

Consistency across public and private securitisation warehouse investments and disclosures strengthens transparency, protects investors from conflicts, and ensures valuations and governance remain robust regardless of asset type.

LOOKING AHEAD — FLEXIBILITY AND A CONSISTENT INVESTMENT PROCESS IS THE FOUNDATION

As GCI enters 2026, the core objectives remain unchanged;

- Sustainable monthly income
- High risk-adjusted returns
- Preserve capital for unitholders

The portfolio continues to be positioned to deliver steady monthly income while providing a strong foundation for capital preservation. In a market environment still marked by uncertainty, the importance of a robust, repeatable investment process and disciplined portfolio construction has never been clearer.

WHY THIS MATTERS

A consistent, repeatable process gives the Gryphon Investment Committee a stable foundation to navigate future market conditions, without relying on prediction or speculation

The entire Gryphon Team appreciates your continued support and remains committed to delivering dependable outcomes for unitholders.
